Honolulu's warm climate is conducive of thirst to a greater degree than that of a colder zone. The average business man loses also, to a degree, the amount of energy and nervous force common enough in the bracing air of American cities. These two phases of our climate make it more necessary than elsewhere to stimulate the system with an invigorant. No more healthful or purer stimulus, or one more delightful to the palate, can be found, than Pabst Milwaukee beer. It is a delicious drink and is constantly on draught at the Cosmopolitan, Pacific and the Royal.

THE ADA IN DISTRESS

ALBONIE THE MATE DROWNED IN THE S. R.

Director Beckley of the Wilder Steamship Company Supplies Necessities and Orders Successor to the Vessel.

Thomas W. Rawlins did not have a successful first voyage in his marine purchase, the schooner Ada, in which he embarked for Hilo on the 2nd inst. The vessel was formerly the Henrietta and was sold at auction under condemnation for opium smuggling. Mr. Rawlins bought her for use in connection with the soap manufactory he is going to start at Hilo.

It appears the Ada made poor progress on the voyage for Hilo, so that when she arrived off Hakalau, fifteen miles from Hilo, the supply of water had become exhausted, and there was a scarcity of food in the stores. J. F. Hardy, who is associated with Mr. Rawlins in the ownership, started for shore in a boat, taking with him the mate, a Frenchman named Albionie, and two sailors, Bill Ulu and Charles Bolabola. The boat was swamped at the mouth of Hakalau gulch, and Albionie was drowned in the breakers, the other three men reaching shore with the greatest difficulty.

As the lost boat was the only one the schooner had, Mr. Rawlins was in a nasty predicament. Besides being left practically without a crew, the weather was bad for the little vessel. In this situation the Ada was sighted by the steamer Kinan, and Purser Beckley of that vessel tells the whole story for the readers of the BULLETIN. Having given the foregoing facts of the schooner's distress he proceeded:

"The men who escaped telephoned to Hilo to inquire if any steamer was there which would go to the Ada's assistance. The steamer Hawaii was dispatched from Hilo at 3 a. m. on the 12th, but the weather was very thick and she could not find the schooner.

"The Kinan left Hilo at 7:30 a. m. on the 12th. Before we came to anchor at Laupahoehoe, twelve miles from Hilo, I raised the schooner five miles off shore to the northward. Captain Clarke headed the Kinan for the schooner, and I boarded her, taking a barrel of water and some provisions aboard. Besides Mr. Rawlins there were on the schooner the captain, J. W. Burt, and two passengers, W. Roberts and S. H. Webb, also one horse and one dog. The vessel left Honolulu with thirty-five gallons of water.

"Mr. Rawlins advised me to take him home. He was surprised to see me. In answer to his question as to where I had got the news of his vessel, I told him I had received a message from Hakalau, stating that the boat had been lost and Albionie drowned. The schooner was five miles off, between Laupahoehoe and Honohinu. I told Capt. Burt and Mr. Rawlins that we had two steamers on the coast, and they were instructed to search for the schooner. The Hawaii was ready to take her into Hilo, but had not been able to find her. After giving them water we went into Laupahoehoe.

"Proceeding on our way home we met the steamer Kilauea Hou at Ookala landing freight, so I gave instructions, as a director of the company, to Captain Freeman to give the distressed schooner all needed assistance, to the extent of towing her into Hilo if necessary. At Mahukona I received a message that the Kilauea Hou had towed the schooner into Hilo."

The action of Mr. Beckley in the matter, with the assistance of Captains Clarke and Freeman, is highly creditable to the Wilder Steamship Company. All the more so, as, even if the vessel was a rich prize for salvage, nothing more could have been done. The motive in rendering the effective assistance was entirely humane, and it is probable that only a nominal charge will be made for towing.

CREDITABLE LOCAL ART.

Some Pictures at the Kilauea Art League Exhibition.

Owing to counter attractions not many people visited the exhibition of the Kilauea Art League Saturday evening. It has been open two evenings and all afternoons except Sunday for several weeks. In variety and excellence the exhibition is richly worth visiting repeatedly by all lovers of art. It cannot be properly taken in within one brief hour.

Howard Hitchcock, the Hawaiian-born painter, has alone what would make an exhibition in themselves of some of the grandest scenes in these islands. His sketch of the recent eruption in Mokuawewe, the summit crater of Mauna Loa, may be regarded as almost priceless, although the artist sets quite a modest value upon it in the catalogue. It is an artistic item in the history of our volcanic region, the subject of which has been seen by less than two-score pairs of mortal eyes. Nobody will ever again see identical phenomena, for, although one eruption only differs from another in glory, it differs emphatically in form. Views of contemporary volcanic phenomena in the crater of Kilauea, together with comparatively permanent and very striking scenery about that place of uncanny marvels, by the same artist are of the greatest possible interest. Mr. Hitchcock has treated them with fine artistic conception and execution, as he has done many less sublime but transcendently beautiful landscapes.

"On the Uvas River," is a happy effort of Miss M. C. Beckwith, the water effects and wooded vista perspective being superb. The same artist has a few excellent studies in flowers which win instant attention. Mrs. Emma Dillingham contributes Hawaiian fishes, a subject in which she is well-known to excel. There is a great number of creditable water colors by various artists, but space will not permit detailed notices at this time. Allen Hutchinson has in sculpture a life-like relief portrait of Charles R. Bishop.

A large collection of drawings and paintings by pupils in the public schools is worthy of general inspection. Many of the works evince blooming talent if not budding genius. Nobody who takes an interest in art, who has hitherto neglected this exhibition, should longer procrastinate. It will be all over in a few days and those who do not enjoy it while it lasts will miss a great pleasure.

SUPREME COURT.

Portrait of the Late Associate Justice McCully Hung on the Wall.

The June term of the Supreme Court was opened with Chief Justice Judd, Associate Justices Frear and Whiting, the entire court, on the bench. There was a large attendance of attorneys. Most of the morning was occupied in arranging for hearings. At least half a dozen lawyers engaged in a discussion as to the rights of appellees when appellants have not completed the necessary preliminaries for having their appeals tried. The court took the matter into consideration, with a view to making a rule for future governance.

The portrait in oil of the late First Associate Justice, Laurence McCully, was disclosed for the first time in public, hanging on the wall opposite the bench. There had been no veil over it, so that there was no ceremony of unveiling. The Chief Justice, however, made some remarks suitable to the inauguration of the picture.

The band will play at Emma square this evening.

LEGISLATURE IN SESSION

BOTH HOUSES WILL ADJOURN THIS AFTERNOON.

The Registration Act is Repealed by a Close Vote in the Senate—Compensatory Votes to Officials.

ONE-HUNDRETH DAY, JUNE 15TH.

THE SENATE.

The last day of the session of the Legislature found ten Senators in attendance besides the President, the absentees being Senators Rice, Holstein, Horner and Brown.

Minister King reported a number of Acts signed by the President.

The usual communication from the House, detailing its proceedings on Saturday, was read.

Senator Lyman from the Passed Bills Committee made the usual report.

Senator McCandless offered a resolution thanking the clerk for the efficient manner in which he had performed his duties. Adopted.

A discussion then arose as to whether the session ended at noon or at midnight, and Senator Baldwin was appointed a committee of one to interview the President on the matter. He afterwards reported that the session ended midnight, in which decision Minister Cooper concurred.

The third reading of the Act repealing the Registration Act came up.

Senator Lyman still objected to the bill. He did not believe that the Legislature should establish the precedent of repealing an act passed at the same session. If there were good and valid reasons for so doing let them be produced and go on the record.

Senator Wright wanted the law given a trial. It looked to him as if the Executive had tried to force the work of repealing the bill on the Legislature when they had the right to eliminate the objectionable features. For himself he was proud of having registered and would not take $100 for his thumbmark.

Minister Cooper said he did not care to go over the matter again. He repudiated the idea that the Executive shirked the matter and tried to place the burden on the shoulders of the Legislature. There were other and important objections to the bill. The law made no provisions exempting foreign ministers or consuls, the crews and officers of merchantmen and foreign men-of-war were not even exempted. There were other equally important objections to the bill, which time did not admit of bringing forward.

Senator Brown repeated his former objections.

The bill passed by the following vote:

Ayes—Waterhouse, Rice, Schmidt, McCandless, Northrup, Kaubane, Baldwin, Hocking—8.
Noes—Brown, Wright and Lyman—3.

The President's veto on the bill concerning the recording of final judgments affecting the title of land was taken up.

Senator Brown moved that the Senate approve the bill. The motion was lost by a unanimous vote and the President's veto was sustained.

Senator Baldwin moved a vote of thanks to President Wilder for the able and impartial manner in which he had performed his arduous duties during the session.

At 10:45 the Senate took a recess to 2 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

In the Senate this afternoon a communication was received from the Executive Council concerning the report of the Audit Commission. The Executive said that the proposals of the commission are so radical as to require further consideration and suggesting that the matter be laid over till next session. On motion the report was adopted.

Senators Brown and Lyman from the Passed Bills Committee made reports and upon the suggestion of Minister Cooper that a veto message was on the way to the House the Senate took a recess of half an hour.

ONE-HUNDRETH DAY, JUNE 15TH.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

In the House this morning the report and message of the President on the Fresh Meat Commission was read.

Minister King reported the following bills signed by the President:

An Act relating to holidays.
An Act making special appropriations for the department of Public Instruction.

An Act to authorize the consolidation of the public debt of Hawaii.

An Act to define and limit certain powers granted to the Ministers of Finance.

An Act relating to special appropriations under "An Act to authorize the consolidation of the public debt."

An Act to provide for public loans.

An Act to define and limit powers granted the Minister of Finance under "An Act to provide for public loans."

An Act making special appropriations for the use of the government for the two years ending the 31st day of December, 1897.

An Act amending the Kapio-lani Park Act.

The action of the House on the President's veto on Saturday having been found to be irregular, the same was considered and on motion the veto was sustained.

Rep. Richards from the Passed Bills committee reported that the Act repealing the Registration Act was presented to the President at 11 a. m. Also that the two concurrent resolutions passed by the Legislature had been presented to the Minister of the Interior.

Rep. Robertson from the Judiciary Committee made a verbal report on the two bills presented by the Liquor Commission, recommending that the same be laid on the table on the ground that they were received too late to be accorded the consideration which their importance demanded. On motion the report was adopted.

RECESS TO 2 P. M.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Veto Over-ridden.

In the House a message from the President was received vetoing House Bill No. 51, increasing the duty on sake and other wines not made from grapes. The reason given for the veto is the serious discrimination against sake compared with other wines, and the serious hardships which would be entailed on the Japanese by the increased duty on almost the sole beverage used by them.

Rep. Robertson moved that the House consider the bill forthwith and asked for the reading of the first section again. So ordered.

Minister Cooper said the President had notified the Cabinet this morning of his intention to veto the bill, and they had gone over his objections and reasons therefor with him. They were prepared now to introduce another bill which being drawn by the President would of course be signed by him if passed. The bill would limit the alcoholic strength of the wines affected to those above 18 per cent.

Rep. Robertson said it was undoubtedly the prerogative of the President to veto a bill but at the same time it was the privilege of the Legislature to pass any bill over his veto. With all due respect to the President he moved to pass the bill over the veto.

(Still in session at 3:35. The House passed the bill over the veto by 10 to 1, and the Senate will likely do the same by a solid affirmative vote.)

HUGO A. FISHER IS HERE

ONE OF THE FIRST ARTISTS OF CALIFORNIA.

Comes to Exhibit His Works and to Place the Finest Hawaiian Scenes on Canvas.

There dropped down to Honolulu in a vessel the other day the celebrated artist, Hugo A. Fisher, who, born in Bohemia, early adopted the United States as his home. He began his art career at the age of eighteen in the city of New York. For the past ten years his residence has been in San Francisco, and California has furnished the subjects of some of his most famous paintings.

Mr. Fisher's talent is hereditary, his father having been a celebrated artist of Prague. His paintings adorn the palaces of many of the moneyed princes of the Golden State. He has brought with him a magnificent painting of the Yosemite Valley. Some of his works are to be found among the art treasures of Wm. G. Irwin. Mr. Fisher will open a studio here when he obtains a good place. In the meantime he will place some of his works on view at the art rooms of the Pacific Hardware Company. It is his intention to make studies of the noblest Hawaiian scenery. His example will go a great way toward making these islands a rendezvous for artists. For the extent of their territory there is probably no country in the world that offers greater and more varied attractions of nature for portrayal.

SMALL TIDAL WAVE.

Boats Swung Round by an Irregular Current.

At half-past eight this morning a strong current, not down in the tide tables, entered the harbor. It made a procession of waves, some observers counting as many as seventeen, which moved up the harbor. The small boats in the way were swung round and made to rock in lively motion. Nuuanu stream was met by the current and its surface raised somewhat by the backed-up water. Somebody says that the old hulk of the bark Samatra was driven fourteen feet from its position in the mud. This, however, is taken as a yarn for the marines. Possibly the tidal wave may have been caused by a volcanic eruption on the island of Hawaii, or in the ocean near that focus of volcanic energy. There ought to have been a shock of earthquake preceding the marine disturbance.

Kona Sanatorium.

A first class resort for invalids and overworked men has never been established on the Hawaiian Islands, but the need for an institution of this kind has been so apparent for some time that Dr. H. A. Lindley has established one at Kona on the island of Hawaii. This establishment is situated on a beautiful hillside overlooking the ocean and 1300 feet above sea level. The climate is mild, the atmosphere clear and dry and entirely free from fogs and malaria. For invalids who cannot afford to go to a foreign country the Kona Sanatorium is a boon. For the tired clerk or merchant who desires a few weeks' rest, it is indeed a place where the greatest degree of rest and recreation can be had for the least money. Only 24 hours' ride from Honolulu and one of the most beautiful spots on God's earth, is the verdict of people who have visited Kona. That the guests will be well looked after there is no doubt, as Dr. Lindley is a perfect host. Terms on application. Apply to Dr. H. A. Lindley, Kona, Hawaii.
